

Basic Game Mechanics

Net Attack = Character's Attack - Opposing Character's Defence

Net Defence = Increases the Character's DP by 10%

Skill = Depends on Player's Job Class

Speed = Faster Character(s) will go first

Gamemodes:

1. 1v1
1 player-controlled character VS 1 computer-controlled character
2. 2v2
2 player-controlled characters VS 2 computer-controlled characters
No repetition of characters allowed.
The two characters with a higher combined speed will go first.

Types of skills:

1. Manipulating Stats: Increasing/decreasing points (attributes)
2. Defence: Protection/Healing
3. Attack

Job classes:

1. Lux - Tends to be faster
2. Psychic - Tends to do more damage
3. Mineral - Heavier, hence, slower and tankier

Rules

1. Damage inflicted onto health will always be a whole number.
2. Characters can only defend a maximum of 4 times.
3. Enemies have no magic skills/points.
4. Some skills allow you to skip an enemy's turn. However, players are only allowed to skip an enemy's turn once in one round. If you skip twice, it's against the rules and the enemy's turn is not skipped.

Example:

- Carbon Protect and Trick are used in one round.
 - Damage is done from trick but the enemy's turn is no longer skipped.
5. Turn-based game unless turn is skipped from a magic skill.
Turn ≠ Round
Rounds cannot be skipped. In 1 round, only the enemy/player will move.
 6. When it is 2v2,
Player 1 vs Enemy 1 ONLY.
Player 2 vs Enemy 2 ONLY.
However, if the last two characters standing are from opposite sides, (Player 1 vs Enemy 2) they will versus each other using their remaining HP and MP. The faster character will go first as usual.
 7. AP > DP always. This is why there is a maximum defence of 4 times.

Code Legend

d1, d2, etc	d stands for dialogue - The number after does not indicate the order it will appear on the screen
HP vs hp	HP means they're constants → the max HP for a character hp means the value can be changed in the game
in_home_screen battling choosing_action choosing_skill	Global loops
User_player	Player 1
User_player2	Player 2
Comp_enemy	Enemy 1
Comp_enemy2	Enemy 2
Isla Rosa Jess	Names of players
Violet Merida Diego	Names of enemies